Memo from BRdata

March 14, 2006

March 2, 2006

BRdata's business model is to support a variety of industry POS platforms, and we have no plans to move away from supporting ISS45 or ScanMaster in favor of a single vendor or POS product.

Specifically, BRdata has a significant number of dedicated ISS45 and ScanMaster users who depend on StoreNext and BRdata to keep our respective products operating together. To ensure that this support continues and our common customers receive the level of service and functions they expect, StoreNext and BRdata's technical staffs cooperate on an ongoing basis to maintain inter-operation of our products. While we compete with some StoreNext products and those carried by StoreNext's dealers, we all realize that customer satisfaction is paramount and that cooperative competition is a manageable fact of life that is here to stay.

BRdata intends to continue elevating the capabilities of the combined BRdata and StoreNext ISS45 and ScanMaster POS platforms. Any comments or rumors to the contrary, from any party, have no basis in fact.

Regards,

John Abbene
Executive Vice President
BRdata
